Who Won the Week?

Mike Kehoe – Dems finally have someone file paperwork to run for lieutenant governor, and it's someone who lost a state senate primary in 2016 and a state house primary in 2018. Not particularly fearsome.

Senate Dems – Make their first stand on the Senate floor and successfully hold off the redistricting change.

Senate Republicans – Moving lots of priorities quickly through the committee process and into the pipeline for the floor. Nothing is guaranteed to pass but it puts pressure on Dems earlier this session – and likely often.

Medicaid advocates – Released a beefy report that provides a roadmap for MedEx to be budget-friendly.

Cities – Kansas City plays for the Superbowl tomorrow, STL lands a new Ag non-profit from the Gates Foundation. Exciting times for Missouri's coasts.
